Photojojo

Do more with your photos!

October 12, 2007

Photo Jojo is one damn fine photo newsletter. You probably own a digital camera and you've probably taken a billion photos with it. You may have printed a few.

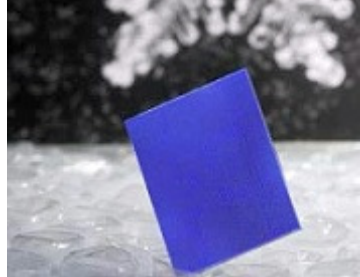

Well, it turns out there's a whole world of things you can do with your photos and with your camera that nobody ever told you about. Find the most kick-ass photo tips, DIY projects, and gear and bring them to you. Turn a photo into a mural at home in 5 minutes, print your friends' faces onto cupcakes, or get a bottlecap that turns any soda bottle into a tripod.

Its free, its fun, Subscribe now @ <http://photojojo.com>

Plastic Stronger Than Steel

It's seashell actually

October 11, 2007

By mimicking a brick-and-mortar molecular structure found in seashells, University of Michigan Researchers created a composite plastic that's as strong as steel but lighter and transparent. [Read More] <http://www.ns.umich.edu/htdocs/releases/story.php?id=6084>

US$100 Laptop (OLPC)

Its a education project not a laptop project

October 08, 2007

OLPC or one laptop per child project costing as much as US$100. What is behind the mission about this project.

Most of the nearly two-billion children in the developing world are inadequately educated, or receive no education at all. One in three does not complete the fifth grade.

The individual and societal consequences of this chronic global crisis are profound. Children are consigned to poverty and isolation—just like their parents—never knowing what the light of learning could mean in their lives. At the same time, their governments struggle to compete in a rapidly evolving, global information economy, hobbled by a increasingly and vast urban underclass that cannot support itself, much less contribute to the commonwealth, because it lacks the tools to do so.
